Internet broadcast of a computer-assisted, partial knee replacement:

- Faster recovery, more natural result. Keeping the part of your knee that works, and replacing the parts that arthritis has destroyed, is less invasive.
- Patients debilitated by arthritis of one compartment of the knee, but with adequate health of the other compartments and associated ligaments, may be able to avoid total joint replacement.
- Our experts demonstrate this new procedure.

Accomplished orthopedic surgeon Peter F. Sharkey, MD, will perform the operation, as Richard H. Rothman, MD, PhD, Chair of Orthopedic Surgery, narrates.
